The man had entered an L. & N. stock car for the purpose of "beating" his way, and was locked up on a charge of trespass. He was tried and fined the usual amount. Murphy had no money and on Tuesday was turned loose and ordered to leave town. He bore a striking resemblance to Ben Johnson, the notorious character who robbed a train in Florida a year ago, and, who when arrested, killed the sheriff and escaped, but the Guthrie authorities were satisfied he was not the man. There is a reward of $1,000 for Johnson's arrest and delivery to the Florida authorities.

All N. Pierce in Finch's "Cyclopedia."

Last month (January) we had the pleasure of meeting a large number of poultrymen whose horses were in the South. We were visiting the exhibition at Memphis, Tenn., and to say that we were pleased with them and their exhibits is putting it mildly, as their hospitality was almost boundless, while their stocks show rapid advancement in the line of breeding and discrimination as well as management. We have visited some portions of the South nearly every year for the past ten years, and it is gratifying year by year, to note the improvement in this branch of stock raising which is our specialty.

It has been asserted for many years, principally by assumption without positive knowledge, that as fine specimens could not be produced in the South, as in the East and West. This we believe to be unfounded. As flocks are bred in Southern Ohio, southern Indiana, southern Illinois and Missouri as are bred elsewhere, and the same may be said of the Carolinas, Virginia, the north half of Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, the whole states of Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas, are similar in climate and can under proper management do equally well.

Years ago it was asserted by an Eastern Light Brahma breeder that the fine color could only be produced in New England but it did not take many years for Western poultrymen to upset that statement, and the South are proving by the fine specimens shown, that they too can not be foisted off by such erroneous theories. Two years ago we saw an exhibit of Light Brahma by Geo. M. Clark at Chattanooga, Tenn., that ranked among the best shown that year, among which was a cock two years old which scored about 90% points, the best L. B. cock we saw that year. This year at Memphis, the same exhibitor showed an L. B. cock three years old which easily reaches 94% points, in fact his exhibit was of a high order of merit. A lady from Alabama, we do not remember her name, exhibited a fine line of White Wyandottes breed and reared by herself which for size and purity of plumage could hardly be excelled in any locality of the United States. Silver & Hamburgs were shown by N. L. Hutchinson of Crystal Springs,

Miss., which were fine in all that goes to make high scoring specimens. He also showed Barred P. Rocks excellent in size and color, Black Langshans shown at Memphis were good in size and color, and the whole class were freer from purple and bronze than is usually seen in northern exhibitions. Mr. Dunstan, of Winona, Miss., exhibited Buff Cochins reared by himself, which were first-class, showing long and abundant feathers, and fairly good color. There were Bantams from Texas that would be heard from in any show. The Leghorn classes were good, many specimens in Brown, Buff and White which for size, color and style deserves the highest commendation. Carl C. Moore, of Hopkinsville, Ky., showed a fine string of C. I. Game, the females of which for size, color and weight could hold their own any show.

It is unnecessary to make special mention further, and it can truthfully be said that for the first exhibition the Miss. Valley Poultry Association was one of high merit and has shown to the world at large that the South has good stock and that it is impossible to raise as good thoroughbred poultry in that part of Uncle Sam's domain as in any other. The South is waking up to this interest and already large "poultry plants" are being established in various localities. The proprietor of Bellevue Poultry Farm at Memphis assured us that he is sparing no expense to make it complete in all of its appointments, and already has hundreds of elegant specimens gracing its yards. His exhibit at Memphis was very large and fine, and contained a large number of high-scoring specimens.

The exhibition hall was a large store fronting on the largest thoroughfare of the city, running back to the alley; three floors were used for the exhibition. Although the week was one of rain, mist and cloudiness, still visitors were continually coming and going, but probably the crowd would have been three times as large had the weather been propitious. Already the management were discussing the undertaking of their next annual show. While there, we met others of the Mississippi State Poultry Association, as well as officers of the Arkansas State Poultry Association and they assured us that efforts were being made looking to exhibitions next year in their respective states. We have extended this report to show our readers the great awakening in the South, and to give them an insight to the resources and possibilities of that country in producing fine fowl. It should also be remembered that those first in this new field will be the first to reap the best returns from their efforts.

Sassafras and Lice.

In every experiment made with the use of sassafras in any form, as a remedy against lice it has given excellent results. One who tried the method gave a teaspoonful of oil of sassafras in the mixed food of ten hens twice a week, and claims that he left the bodies of the hens. The use of sassafras root, steeped in boiling water, the water being used for drenching the roots proved excellent, and even poles of sassafras as roots are better than any other to prevent lice. A mixture of one part sassafras oil and four parts sweet oil, applying a few drops on the head, comb, face, wattles, legs, under the wings and around the vent, is excellent, and when well rubbed into the skin of the head and neck is a sure remedy for the large head lice. Bear in mind that when using oil or grease of any kind on hens only a little should be applied, as grease will sometimes destroy chicks. As a proxy for poultry louse use kerosene emulsion (or kerosene), adding a gill of sassafras oil and half a pint of crude carbolic acid to a gallon of kerosene or emulsion. Two or three applications will destroy not only the lice, but the "ants" and eggs. Mirror and Farmer.

It's a kind of "reptance" that doesn't invite me to a repetition of the offense.

REMEDIES FOR ROUP.

Roup is principally caused by draughts, damp houses, small cracks in walls near roof poles, insufficient protection from sudden changes in the weather at this season of the year. The disease is contagious and sick fowls should at once be separated from the flock.

R. W. Davison says—First remove all causes of colds, such as cracks, overhead ventilators, dampness, etc. When fowls are first affected add sponge to the drinking water, say 25 to 40 drops of the tincture to a quart of drinking water daily.

Dr. Woods gives the following remedy—Tincture of aconite, ten drops; tincture of spongia, ten drops; alcohol enough to make one ounce. Put a teaspoonful of this in a quart of drinking water daily.

Should the head swell, and cheesy matter form in the roof of the mouth take a quart can and fill it with kerosene oil, take the bird by the feet and neck and plunge the head in the oil; hold it there a moment and withdraw; immediately wipe the head dry to prevent feathers from falling out.

A. F. Hunter, editor of Farm Poultry recommends the following:—A tablespoonful of clear lard, half a teaspoonful each of ginger, cayenne pepper and mustard; make in till size of top joint of little finger and administer, repeating dose in twelve or twenty-four hours as case requires.

P. H. Jacob says—Dissolve a teaspoonful of chloride of lime in a pint of water and give the bird a teaspoonful of the solution. Barn tar and turpentine in the house after the hogs have gone to roost.

W. D. Elwell, in Reliable Poultry Journal, says the following remedy has proven very effective in over one hundred cases curing everyone: Cider vinegar, one pint; baking soda, one teaspoonful, table salt one teaspoonful. Take the affected bird by the wind pipe, hold the wings and legs securely with the other and dip the head well in to the solution. Hold it there as long as you can without choking the fowl, dip about three times; repeat the operation night and morning and two or three days will effect cure.

In aggravated cases the hatchet is the best remedy—Southern Fancier.

To cure cases of long standing where the heads are swelled and the eyes are frothy, use the sharp point of a small pen knife blade, open the swollen face down near the beak. There is no pus, only a white, slimy substance, slightly opaque, closely resembling the white of an egg. With the back of the knife press all of this out of the opening, pour a teaspoonful of carbolic acid into two tablespoonsfuls of water, and with a small syringe cleanse the cavity with the acid solution; then into the cavity insert small plugs of medicated cotton that have been saturated with the acid and water; allow them to remain three days; then remove with a steel crooked hook; keep these openings open as long as you think it necessary. The great trouble with them is that they heat over too quickly and have to be resoled.

Michigan Poultry Breeder.

Which is the Best General Purpose Fowl?

We say the Buff Plymouth Rock, because we think them superior to other fowls for usefulness, both to fancier and the farmer. The Barred Rock is often claimed to be the best general purpose fowl, but we claim the Buffs to be superior. The farmer will have, not only a flock of beautiful birds, but also a flock of useful birds for laying and for market. They lay equally as good if not superior to their barred cousins, and lay a nice large brown-shelled egg, which are more sought after by hucksters or dealers than the white shelled eggs, and are only excelled for laying by the non-sitting breeds. The huckster will add to his benefit to buy "buffs," as they dress much finer, owing to their color resembling the skin, being a nice clean yellow, and they always demand a higher price in market than all others.

Not only is the Buff Rock a fowl for the farmer, No never! The fancier will have no fully equipped yard without a pen of Buff Rocks. They add to the admiration of his flock, and more so, beautifies the eye of every visitor who may come

BOYS SEE THE POINT.

They Make Big Money. Make It
Easy. No Capital Invested.
How They Do It.

There are several thousand boys and hundreds of men engaged in St. Louis in business which brings a weekly profit of $8,000 to 10,000. It's the "silk of daily papers." Hundreds of families live comfortably on the profit of the sale of daily news papers.

In St. Louis the favorite newspaper with the boys is the POST-DISPATCH, because it sells best. An investigation has shown that the boys sell more copies of the daily POST DISPATCH than the combined sales of the two other English evening papers.

One of the pleasures the boys find in selling papers is they are their "own boss." They come and go when they please. While many have regular corners and newstands, others walk the streets each having his own peculiar way of "crying" out his papers.

The situation is quite different on Sunday. The papers are printed in the morning and by six o'clock boys and men are out in search of buyers.

There are four English Sunday papers. Many boys take out 300 papers. A boy taking from two to three hundred papers has all he can do to get over the ground.

Sunday as on week days finds the POST DISPATCH everywhere. It's a ready seller. It's good for the money. The Sunday POST-DISPATCH is very original and exclusive features, including the Colored Comic Weekly.

This great newspaper offices have what is called a "Circulation Department," the object of which is to promote the sale of the papers. This department answers all requests for sample copies (which are sent free) and on the day before the St. Louis, they are constantly looking for "agents" to buy or to represent.

This is done by the aid of traveling men and correspondents. All letters are promptly answered. It is pleasant work, especially in the towns outside of St. Louis. Boys in the outside towns are not called newsboys, but agents.

More money is made outside of St. Louis because the selling price is more and the public greater.

If you would like to be an agent for the Post-Dispatch in this city write to the circulation department of Post-Dispatch, St. Louis.

What a jolly old world this would be if everything on earth was as attractive as the shop windows.

From this it will be seen that the number of pigeon entries almost equalled the number of poultry and any attempt to place them all on the ground floor would have resulted in confusion, crowding and discomfort.—Practical Poultryman.

THE ARMY CAT.

General Merritt Took Three With Him to Manila.

When Major-General Merritt sailed from San Francisco he asked the government authorities for three cats to take to Manila. Probably although juries in their collective capacity seem to be the embodiment of common sense, taken individually they frequently behave in the strangest manner. The writer remembers a case in which the judge when he came up noticed that one of the jurors was missing.

Just as a search was being instituted for the delinquent, a juror said: "My lord, the gentleman has a sick daughter whose case is to be diagnosed at three o'clock today by a celebrated specialist. Fearing you would not give him permission, he left the box soon after the court resumed, leaving his verdict with me."

The judge fell back on hearing this, and it was quite a minute before he recovered his speech. The counsel, of course, waxed very angry; they had no reason for anger, as the adjournment of the case, of course, meant more fees. The judge next morning fined the absentee $20, which he could very well afford to pay as he was living in a house rated at $200 a year.

Special juries, because they live in houses rated at not less than £50 a month in Middlesex, raised to £100 for towns containing less than 20,000 inhabitants are supposed to possess special qualifications for trying cases involving technical and intricate issues.

It may be so, although personally most people would fail to see why the tenant of a house rated at £20 a year should not be equally intelligent as the gentleman who happened to live in a £50 dwelling. One thing, however, is clear: Common juries, although they are not without weaknesses, are seldom guilty of what might be called "downright foolishness."

They are not fed on scrap, nor are their individual tastes disregarded, but are those of the enlisted men, but they are allotted sumptuous pounds of choice beef or any other delicacy their palates may desire. Of course they may have as much game as they wish, and the storcheses seldom fail to furnish an unlimited supply of rats and mice. That the cooks save many times their cost of support is well known, as such supplies as crackers, cheese, bacon, flour and meal are much sought after by the rodents.

All men-of-war carry cats. Their usefulness is never more apparent than on shipboard.

The writer was crossing from Antwerp to New York on the steamship Southward, when he was awakened by the sudden stopping of the ship, an occurrence which, happening in mid-ocean, generally means something serious. The passengers rushed on deck, half clad, and were disgusted to learn that a rat having crawled into the cylinder had caused the halt. Such an accident on a man-of-war in the time of action might be fearfully paid for, and an active cat is the only preventive.

"The Colonel" has a host of admirers, and in his many years in the army he has become the pet of many officers and clerks and the progenitor of many other cats, whose ratting qualities have won them distinction. San Francisco Chronicle.

Disinfect.

Buy a pound bottle of crystalized carbolic acid, place it in a vessel of warm water to dissolve, clean out the hen house, raise up all the old straw, feathers, corn husks, broken cobs, etc., and cart them off to the vineyard, or some place where they will do some good, place the turniture back where it belongs, pour six buckets of water in a tub and into this pour half of the carbolic acid.

Now with a force pump, if you have one, if not, use wisps of straw, hay, or a new broom, sprinkle all over the inside of the house and the yards outside. If fleas are troublesome give their rallying ground a sprinkling; they will leave without taking time to say goodbye.

Comprehensive.

A Memphis traveler man just in from a trip to interior Mississippi points brings a copy of a letterhead used by a country merchant in a remote district. It reads as follows:

"Blank & Co., dealers in furniture, hardware, groceries, drugs, collars, towels, etc., dry goods, saddle-hats, umbrellas, etc., cider, vinegar, groceries, needles, thread, clothing, hats, caps, bonnets, shoes, country produce bought and sold, agents for the — life insurance company, will also take your measure for tailor-made suits, lively stable in connection." And then in parenthesis: "Mrs. Blank takes boarders."

The drummer says he expects to find the enterprising Blank & Co. selling steamboats on his next visit.—Memphis Sentinel.

All men-of-war carry cats. Their usefulness is never more apparent than on shipboard.

The writer was crossing from Antwerp to New York on the steamship Southward, when he was awakened by the sudden stopping of the ship, an occurrence which, happening in mid-ocean, generally means something serious. The passengers rushed on deck, half clad, and were disgusted to learn that a rat having crawled into the cylinder had caused the halt. Such an accident on a man-of-war in the time of action might be fearfully paid for, and an active cat is the only preventive.

"The Colonel" has a host of admirers, and in his many years in the army he has become the pet of many officers and clerks and the progenitor of many other cats, whose ratting qualities have won them distinction. San Francisco Chronicle.

Disinfect.

Buy a pound bottle of crystalized carbolic acid, place it in a vessel of warm water to dissolve, clean out the hen house, raise up all the old straw, feathers, corn husks, broken cobs, etc., and cart them off to the vineyard, or some place where they will do some good, place the turniture back where it belongs, pour six buckets of water in a tub and into this pour half of the carbolic acid.

Now with a force pump, if you have one, if not, use wisps of straw, hay, or a new broom, sprinkle all over the inside of the house and the yards outside. If fleas are troublesome give their rallying ground a sprinkling; they will leave without taking time to say goodbye.

It is on these occasions that the workingmen jingle shillies. As he is a spendid jury panel would probably go to pains to conceal the trial from the public, and if the evidence should not correspond with their fears, the a-wrestler's master in whom they crept into the witness box, evidently under the impression that the trial was to be a farce, said: "The trial of this fellow is going to be a farce."

"Yes," replied the judge, "but you were not on oath to ween it a farce, you were to give a true and impartial verdict."

"Yes," said the master, "but you were not on oath to ween it a farce, you were to give a true and impartial verdict."

It is rather discouraging to discover what a lot of time you lose in being punctual in your appointments with others!

We are aware that our people who suffer from nervous, chronic or sexual complaints do not have the same opportunity to be cured as do the residents of the great cities where the most successful specialists are to be found. Dr. G. H. Towne, a specialist in diseases of the heart, lungs, kidneys, etc., who has the largest practice in the world, and is without doubt the most successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, offers to give free consultation by mail to all sufferers. Write to him at once about your case. He will surely cure you.

The Doctor has just published a very interesting and interesting book entitled "Sexual Health and Marriage," which should be read by every man. He will send a copy free to anyone mentioning this paper and enclosing stamp for reply.

Gen. Miles has made out a strong case in the beet investigation. A number of Army officers of high rank who were in the San Diego campaign backed up his statement that the canned beef furnished the soldiers was unfit to eat and that much of the refrigerated beet was spoiled. Next week the board will go to Chicago and give the beet a chance to explain matters.

Osborne Machinery.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Messrs. Branham & Sheets in this issue, who have opened an agency for the Osborne harvesting machinery on Virginia street, next to the Old Storage. Both gentlemen are experienced machinists, lately from St. Louis, and wide-awake business men. They have leased the room for three years and will carry a full line, including repairs of all kinds.

JUDGE FLEMING IN TOWN.

Makes a Short Visit to the City and Sees Party Leaders.

Judge W. B. Fleming, of Louisville, one of the Democratic candidates for Attorney General, was in the city Wednesday in the interest of his candidacy. Judge Fleming was a Democratic elector in 1884 and subsequently Governor of New Mexico by appointment. In 1893 he was appointed to a position in the Law Department at Washington, but was removed in 1896 by President Cleveland because he made a speech for Bryan. He is one of the Democratic leaders of the state and a lawyer of distinguished ability and high standing in his profession. He made a fine impression and will have a strong following here.

His opponents are J. A. Scott, of Frankfort, R. J. Breckenridge, of Danville, and Mr. Smith of Paris.

Endeavor Reunion.

Next Sunday is the day when the Local Endeavor Union will celebrate the 18th anniversary of the organization of the first Endeavor society.

To fittingly observe the anniversary of this event, extensive preparations are being made for a union service in the Christian church at 7:15 p.m., this meeting taking the place of the regular preaching services of the four Endeavor churches.

Numerous copies of an exercise arranged by the United Society, has been obtained, which, when carried out will prove of a most interesting character to everyone. The name of the exercise is "The Christian Endeavor Rainbow," the different colors representing the different features of the work of the society. It is probable that the church will be decorated in rainbow colors to brighten the effect of the exercise.

Several local pastors will take part on the program. Dr. DeWitt, the popular pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, will make the address of the occasion. The President of the Union, Rev. H. D. Smith, will preside over the meeting.

The annual election of officers for the ensuing term will take place.

The church will probably be filled to overflowing when the meeting opens.

GOEBEL TO SPEAK.

Makes an appointment For Tuesday March 7.

Senator Goebel has changed his appointment in this city from March 6 to the following day. Three appointments were made for him on the same day. Oneat Glasgow has been changed to April 17, and the one here to March 7. On the 6th he will speak at Hartford and reach Hopkinsville in time to speak at 1 o'clock p.m. on the 7th and remain in the city until after the railroad convention on the 8th. Senator Goebel has an active organization in this county and his managers assert that his following is rapidly increasing.

COL. CORBETT WITHDRAWS.

Dempsey Will Have a Walkover on March 8.

Col. Thos. H. Corbett on Tuesday withdrew from the contest for railroad commissioner, leaving Judge J. F. Dempsey without opposition for the Democratic nomination. The convention in this city on March 8 will now be a merely formal affair, with the nomination settled in advance. The chief interest in the convention will now attach to the fact that nearly all of the candidates for state offices will be on hand, and much oratory may be expected.

Christian County Boy.

Mr. E. D. Mosley, formerly of this county, is now conducting a general merchandise store at Dorrville, Todd county, five miles east of Gutierrez. He has built up an excellent trade and his many friends in Christian will learn, with pleasure, of his success in the mercantile business.

"Durability is Better Than Show."

The wealth of the multi-millionaires is not equal to good health. Riches without health are a curse, and yet the rich, the middle classes and the poor alike have, in Hood's Sarsaparilla, a valuable assistant in getting and maintaining perfect health. It never disappoints.

Seroflax.—Three years ago our son, now eleven, had a serious case of seroflax and erysipelas with dreadful sores, discharging and itching constantly. He could not walk or run, play or sleep for sixteen months. Three months' treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla made him perfectly well again. "We are glad to tell others of it." Mrs. D. Davis, of Kankakee, Ill.

Nausea.—Vomiting spells, dizziness and prostration troubled me for years. Had neuralgia, gout and rheumatism. Took a serum against me, but Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me thoroughly. My weight increased from 125 to 145 pounds. The name of this drink is the only one I ever felt so well and strong since I was married as I do now!" Mrs. M. A. Waters, 1292 33d St., Washington, D. C.

Eczema.—We had to tie the hands of our two year old son on account of eczema on face and limbs. No medicine even helped until we took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which soon cured! Mrs. A. VAN WICK, 123 Montgomery Street, Paterson, N. J.

Little Folk's Party.

The little folks were highly entertained Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. J. F. Wells. Quite a number of little boys and girls gathered there to celebrate Ruth Francis Heath's sixtieth birthday and Edgar Nave Wells' eighth birthday. After enjoying the music and games for awhile, they then marched into the dining room, where refreshments were served.

Above is the birth-place of the Deering binder. At maturity it issues thence to conquer the world, for its field of operations are not confined to the United States, but stretches out to England, France, Scotland, Germany, Hungary, South Africa, Russia and Australia. The great Corliss Engine used in the Machinery Hall at the World's Fair is used in the twine department. This factory turns out 31 miles of twine and one complete machine per minute. Its size, capacity and number of employees surpass any other two Harvester works in the world.

The Deering is now away in the lead owing to its progressive policy. It used ball bearings four years before the others followed suit, and in many other features it is equally as far ahead. THEY ARE EASY TO SELL because they are easy to run and easy to keep running. This is our twelfth year as Deering agents. You can always find repairs for it right here.
